15 Mr Singachar holds the appointment of Private Secy to H.H the Yuvaraja & his emoluments include a local allowance of 100 Rs. During his tour in Europe Mr Singachar continues to do the same duties as he would have done if H.H was in Mysore & he would naturally draw the local allce as well.

16 In the case of Dr Norman he was in receipt of certain local allces as Dt Medl officer & Dt Sanr officer, which duties he does not discharge during his tour in Europe.

17. It is a different question whether because of his being on the Staff of H.H during the European tour Dr Norman should be granted any local, staff & deputation allce besides his pay proper & the daily allce sanctioned...

yes bound to always in attendance on the has been a certain amount of expenditure to maintain his dignity & his person which a brother Jagir in his general line is not expected to do. Now that Mr Usman has been attached to the staff of Mr Cheyheen, he is in the same position as Mr Cheyheen and should not by any means be differently treated. It will be hard for him to maintain a staff allowance which is expected to compensate him for the loss of his emoluments (Rs 50 LA + 30 HR). Mr Usman might not be made to suffer for having temporarily occupied his office & Mr Cheyheen. The allowance sanctioned which are barely sufficient to cover their expenses efficiency. He may be given an allowance of Rs 100 as was done in his previous occasion when he accompanied his father to Jeddah in the first European war.

6) While there is considerable force in the argument put forward by the Ch. Secy. against certain special allowance of a purely local nature being granted during the period of deputation Still I am of opinion that an officer shd not by reason of such deputation be mulcted in his total emoluments. Having had Experience of both personal staff & work deputation work myself for years I may be permitted to say that from a financial point of view, officers on the personal staff are not as well off as officers in the general service. I wd suggest the deputation being met by the grant of a special staff allce during the period of deputation.
